The Fight Goes On – and You Can Help!

Help us get as many pro-privacy JPLers as possible to tomorrow's hearing in a Pasadena courtroom.

The emergency injunction we won in October runs out soon, so the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals meets in Pasadena tomorrow to vote on extending it. If they rule our way, nobody has to sign the obnoxious HSPD-12 paperwork for the duration of the court case. If they decide not to extend the injunction, the privacy invasions may resume immediately, even if we eventually win the case on a later appeal.

You can help make things go our way. Come to the hearing – it's at the U.S. Court of Appeals at 125 South Grand Avenue in Pasadena – by 9:30 tomorrow (Wednesday) morning. (That's when the morning session starts; the court will hear five other cases before ours, but they should hear ours before lunchtime.) You'll need to dress appropriately, and parking is limited, so consider carpooling. Although you won't be testifying, the presence of dozens of pro-privacy JPLers can only help to positively influence the ruling – and the press coverage.

We won't be out here every week, so remember to keep up with the news at www.hspd12jpl.org. We'll let you know the result of tomorrow's hearing as soon as we know anything. Meanwhile, even if you can't be there yourself, help us spread the word. Tell two co-workers today!

We've been out of sight, but we've still been fighting the fight – and you can still help

Of course, it will help if you can make time to show up at the court hearing tomorrow. But even if you can't do that, there are many other ways you can help:

- Donate to the legal fund. As long as we fight, we'll welcome your donations. No donation is too small to be appreciated.
- If you signed the paperwork already, make it known that you signed only because they forced you to. Already, 300 JPLers have signed such a statement, at www.hspd12jpl.org/statement.html. Add your voice today, and spread the word!
- If you've been harmed by the rebadging process in any way, or if you've directly observed harm to others – if you've been denied a badge, you've had your benefits threatened, you personally observed the lax information-handling procedures of the rebadging staff, anything – please email the details to resist.hspd12+lawsuit@gmail.com. We've collected many such stories already, and we've passed them on to our lawyers – but every story helps.
- Wear your "No HSPD-12" T-shirt on the last non-RDO day of each week. And proudly display your "No HSPD-12" buttons, coffee mugs, mouse pads, stickers, and other merchandise every day. It's all available at our non-profit online store, cafepress.com/hspd12jpl.
- Check the Web site for news and information as the lawsuit progresses.
